FRAGRANCE GUIDELINES

Website Resources:

The Exiles strives to have a low-fragrance environment at our in-person events. Some of our members have chemical sensitivities and would benefit from reduced fragrances.

Fragrance is a chemical scent added to hygiene products, cleaning products, and some other items. It is usually listed in an ingredients list as “fragrance,” “parfum,” or “scent.” You can read more about fragrance through UCLA’s Center for the Study of Women’s Fragrance-Free Toolkit.

While “low-fragrance” doesn’t have an exact definition, we ask that event attendees, to the best of their ability, try to avoid wearing perfumes and colognes, as well as avoiding other scented products at least a few hours before attending Exiles events. If an attendee’s chemical sensitivity is triggered, we may work with other attendees and the venue to accommodate the member so that everyone can have as safe and fun a time as possible.

Forbidden Tickets Verbige:

We ask that attendees try to facilitate a “low-fragrance” environment by avoiding using perfumes, colognes, and other scented products at least a few hours before attending Exiles events as much as they can.

Website Event Manager Verbige:

We ask that attendees, to the best of their ability, try to facilitate a “low-fragrance” environment by avoiding using perfumes, colognes, and other scented products at least a few hours before attending Exiles events.